

Roosevelt Parries Third Term Query

REPORTER TOLD TO 'GO STAND IN A CORNER'

Robert Jackson Says
FDR's First Term
"Cancelled"

Washington, June 20.—(P)—While third term talk continued to come from the inner circles of the New Deal, President Roosevelt parried today a bluntly worded question from a reporter as to whether he would be a candidate again in 1940. He told the reporter to go stand in a corner.

It was the first time since the speculation over the third term reached its present proportions that the issue had been laid squarely before the president at a press conference.

Meanwhile Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson made a speech before the American business clubs here which was regarded as another boost for the third term idea.

The Washington Star said he told the business men that there should be no talk about a third term for Mr. Roosevelt because there is no third term really involved.

The first term was cancelled by the courts, Jackson said.

Experiments Lost

He went on to explain that the administration was not allowed to make any of its experiments in social welfare and economic improvements during the first Roosevelt term.

"We couldn't try the AAA," he said. "We couldn't have minimum wages. Municipalities couldn't even invoke the bankruptcy law and we couldn't have railroad retirement or any other form of security."

Since then, he said, different decisions from the court had allowed many reforms and economic adjustments.

At the press conference, reporters had no more luck drawing out the president's views than have the dozens of politicians who have dropped in at the White House recently.

In his remark about standing in a corner, Jackson said a week ago when a reporter asked about his attitude toward a third term, the president told him laughingly to put on a dance cap and stand in the corner.

A few days ago reporters called his attention to the fact that certain political leaders, after visiting the White House, had expressed themselves in favor of a third term. Mr. Roosevelt disclaimed responsibility for such statements.

President's "Neglect"

Some columnists, Mr. Roosevelt said today, had made a point of the fact that he neglected to repeat his emphatic remark about the corner last week. In the future, he indicated, he would not make such a mistake.

Today the president also dodged a request for his reaction to political developments in Wisconsin last week. One of those developments was an endorsement of a third term at a Democratic political rally. The president said he had merely read the headlines about it.

CHICAGO LAKEFRONT'S ELECTRICITY PUZZLE

Chicago, June 20.—(P)—Trouble shooters finally found out today why in a lakefront industrial section, the electric power would diminish suddenly for no accountable reason, causing newspaper presses to slow up and commercial photographers' lights to dim, among other annoyances.

Engineers of the Underwriters' laboratories were deliberately blowing fuses, with a 10,000-ampere current, to test them for safety. The power all came from the same substation. Now the engineers will do their fuse-blowing about 4 o'clock in the morning.

STUDENT RECRUITS

Colleges Are Criticized In
"Mad Competition"

Cleveland, June 20.—(P)—An education assembly of the 30th Rotary International convention was told today that "mad competition" among American colleges and universities for student recruits is "contemptible."

"Cut prices and high-powered salesmanship is as contemptible in education as in any other field," Dr. James E. Allen, president of Marshall College at Huntington, W. Va., told Rotary's forum on higher education.

One of nearly 50 group meetings surveying world business and professions. A divergent view was expressed by Raymond F. Dvorak, professor of music at the University of Wisconsin.

"Some students must be recruited, or many worthy ones never could have the opportunity to go to college," he asserted.

SENATORS SEEK CURRENCY BILL 'CONCESSIONS'

Threatening To Delay
Legislation Unless Demands Met

Washington, June 20.—(P)—Senate advocates of a $2,000,000,000 expansion of the currency, threatened to delay the enactment of highly important legislation today, unless they received administration concessions on their demand for issuance of new money.

Carefully avoiding the word "fillbuster," but making their strategy none-the-less obvious, they pointed to the fact that certain bills must be enacted by June 30 to avoid serious consequences to the government and added that many speeches might "block procedure."

Senator Thomas (D.-Okla.) counted the tax bill, the relief appropriation, and the monetary bill now before the Senate on his fingers and added that his convictions and responsibilities made it necessary that he take advantage of the opportunity presented.

On the Senate floor, Senator McCarran (D.-Nev.), his colleague in the currency expansion battle, was holding up action on the administration's monetary measure by the use of many of the little devices of delay familiar to Senate filibusters.

Administration leaders, although confident that such tactics could be broken in time, were concerned at the possible immediate consequences. Treasury officials have repeatedly said that unless the tax bill is enacted by June 30, the government will lose a sizeable amount of revenue.

And WPA officials have contended that the administration of relief would be hamstrung by uncertainty and lack of funds unless the appropriation were passed well before the end of the month.

In addition, the filibuster possibility threatened the monetary bill, which gives the treasury authority to continue the operation of the $2,000,000,000 international stabilization fund beyond June 30, in addition to prolonging the president's power to devalue the dollar.

McCarran and Thomas are the authors of a substitute for that measure which would: Reduce the stabilization fund to $500,000,000; take the remaining $1,500,000,000 and add it to the fund for the issuance of $2,000,000,000 in new paper money; and increase the price paid by the treasury for newly mined silver from 64.94 cents an ounce to $1.05.

Battered Skeleton Solves A Mystery

Ada, Minn., June 20.—(P)—A 15-year old mystery was cleared today, County Attorney Lloyd J. Heland said, by the discovery of the battered skeleton of Mrs. Emma Rabe buried under a hog house on her husband's farm had been torn down.

Heland said she had been slain by a blow on the skull, but that he did not expect anyone would be tried for the killing because "the principal suspect is dead."

W. H. Rabe, the slain woman's husband, died last October, several years after he had sold the farm and moved to Gary, Minn.

OLSEN-PILGER
New York, June 20.—(P)—George Olsen, orchestra leader, and Clara Lee Pilger, society woman, were married today at the Hotel Plaza. They planned to leave immediately for a San Francisco honeymoon.

Olsen was recently divorced from Ethel Shutta, who sang with his orchestra for many years.

WARD BILLS ON RELIEF AMOUNT ARE APPROVED

Committee Of House
Acts On Illinois Biennial Funds

Springfield, Ill., June 20.—(P)—Defeating attempts to both increase and reduce the amount, the house appropriations committee today recommended passage of the Ward bills to allot $72,000,000 for relief during the next biennium to be spent at a rate of not more than $4,000,000 a month.

Already approved by the senate and given first reading in the house, the measures are to be reported to the house tomorrow and will then be in a position to be sent to the governor this week.

Table Amendment
Although the committee tabled an amendment of Rep. Robert M. Woodward (R.-Chicago) to raise the maximum monthly spending to $5,000,000, he declared he would offer it again from the house floor.

Rep. John Ryan (D.-Chicago) stated he intended offering an amendment to increase the rate to $6,000,000 monthly.

The attempt of Rep. C. D. Johnson (R.-Belleville) to reduce the monthly rate to $3,500,000, accompanied by charges that investigation showed "20 to as much as 68 percent of those on relief rolls were not entitled to aid," was also defeated.

Tabling of the Woodward amendment followed the assertion by Leo M. Lyon, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission, that "if we are going to meet the relief problem fully, we'll need $3,000,000 a month."

Miss Bankhead At Hearing For WPA Projects

Washington, June 20.—(P)—Brown-haired Tallulah Bankhead told a Senate committee today that many actors would be "utterly destitute" if the Senate retained a provision of the House-approved relief bill terminating the WPA theater projects.

Confessing nervousness, the actress was accompanied to a hearing before a Senate appropriations subcommittee by her father, Speaker William Bankhead (D.-Ala.), and her uncle, Senator John Bankhead (D.-Ala.).

Earlier, she greeted both with hugs and kisses.

On the Senate floor, Senator Wagner (D.-N. Y.) submitted an amendment by himself and Senators Downey (D.-Calif.) and Pepper (D.-Fla.) providing that up to 3 per cent of the relief funds should be available for projects financed solely by the WPA.

This would make possible the continuance of the theater and other arts projects. Besides eliminating the theater program, the House voted to require local contributions to the cost of all future arts projects, such as those for writers.

New State Record For Auto Licenses

Springfield, Ill., June 20.—(P)—An all-time high in automobile license registrations in Illinois was reported today by Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes.

State licenses have been issued thus far in 1939 for 1,889,808 passenger cars, or 51,282 more than in all of last year. Corresponding increases were shown in truck, trailer, dealer and chauffeur registrations.

Secretary Hughes reported $21,585,625 in auto license fee collections this year was $2,335,805 above last year.

Under the drivers' license law that became effective May 1, the state had issued permits to 2,529,640 drivers as of June 1.

Bartholomew Sues For Son's Earnings

Los Angeles, June 20.—(P)—In a suit prepared without a lawyer's aid, Cecil L. Bartholomew, retired British army officer, sought $1,000,000 damages today for loss of the earnings of his son, Freddie, young film star.

Defendants were his sister, Myllicent Bartholomew, aunt and legal guardian of Freddie; Isaac Pach, lawyer who represented the father in a previous custody fight, and several John and Jane Does.

In the self-prepared action, Bartholomew charges that through the influence of Pach, he and his wife, Lillian, were induced to let the aunt adopt Freddie. He claims Miss Bartholomew promised to set aside the agreement in six months, if the parents so requested, but has refused to do so.

O. JOHN ROGGE
Washington, June 20.—(P)—The senate approved today the nomination of O. John Rogge of Illinois to be an assistant attorney general in the justice department succeeding Brian McMahon, who resigned.

Commander Of Sunken Sub Admits Equipment Is 'Faulty'

Tells Naval Board Of Inquiry Recommendation 19 Years Ago
Might Have Prevented Tragedy Of The Squalus

Portsmouth, N. H., June 20.—(P)—The commander of the submarine Squalus, which still is the sunken sepulchre of 26 men, told a naval board of inquiry today that a recommendation born of a submarine disaster nearly 19 years ago might have prevented the recent tragedy if it was caused by a faulty air induction valve.

Lieutenant O. F. Naquin, one of the few undersea commanders who has escaped from a sunken craft to tell his story, asserted that improved ventilation equipment might have saved the Squalus and that current devices might prove "fatally defective" in time of war.

Important Query
It was near the close of a full day on the witness stand for Naquin that Captain William R. Munroe, assistant director of naval intelligence, asked the Squalus' commander if the accident could have been prevented if there had been a device to prevent the flooding of the vessel's ballast tanks, necessary before a dive, until opened air induction valves were closed.

"I believe such a device would have prevented this tragedy," the lieutenant answered slowly and quietly.

Captain Munroe based his question on a recommendation by another board of inquiry, which investigated the sinking of the S-5 off the Delaware Capes in September, 1920.

Old Recommendation
That board recommended that "steps be taken to investigate and install, if found feasible, x x x a device which, by means of interlock, will insure that the middle ballast tank vent is closed until the main induction valve is closed."

Whether the recommendation was acted upon and found not feasible was not brought out.

With dramatic suddenness, Naquin had surprised the court early in today's session with the assertion that if any of four pipes which feed air to the submarine during surface maneuvers was ruptured by a depth bomb or a mine, the entire ventilation system of the ship would be flooded.

HARLAN COUNTY MINE, CIO SIGN NEW CONTRACT

First Member Of The Association To Accept Terms

Harlan, Ky., June 20.—(P)—William Turnblair, Harlan District President of the United Mine Workers (C. I. O.), announced tonight the Crech Coal Company had signed a "union shop" contract with the union—the first member of the Harlan County Coal Operators' Association to do so.

The company will put $50 men back to work tomorrow, Turnblair said.

He said he, George Tiller, Harlan U. M. W. district secretary-treasurer, Robert Hodge and the local union scale committee signed for the union and that George W. Creech, vice-president, signed for the firm.

Contract Parade
As soon as news of the contract signing reached the Crech company camp, miners, wives and merchants of adjoining communities paraded to Wallins, four miles from the camp.

The operators' Association had opposed the "union shop" demand. Many of the 21 member companies reopened more than five weeks ago when national guardsmen were sent into the county to "protect" any miner wishing to work.

After negotiations between the association and union committees reached an impasse, the association voted to permit its members to negotiate individual agreements.

The Crech company was the 11th Harlan county firm to sign a U. M. W. contract.

FRENCH PLAN SUB TO REPLACE THE PHENIX

Paris, June 20.—(P)—Premier Daladier announced in the Senate today that a new submarine would be built as soon as possible to replace the Phenix, lost June 15 with 71 men aboard.

At a memorial session for the victims Daladier said the new craft would be of the same type as the Phenix and would have the same name.

Naval and airplane units virtually abandoned the search off French Indo-China today.

EDITH McCORMICK
Kenosha, Wis., June 20.—(P)—Circuit Judge S. E. Smalley, of Cuba City, sitting in Kenosha county circuit court, has approved a petition of trustees for Edith Rockefeller McCormick's Edithon Beach development near here for sale of the real estate, the court clerk's office said today. No order approving the sale has been entered as yet.

Debating Methods Of Relief

Estes Park, Colo., June 20.—(P)—Relief methods of the Mormon church, which frowns on federal subsidies, and those of the government were contrasted today before the citizens' conference on government management.

The conferees, some 250 businessmen concerned with government management, heard the subject discussed by J. Reuben Clark, first counselor of the Church of Latter Day Saints, which handles its own relief problem, and in a paper by Col. F. C. Harrington, Federal Works Progress administrator, read by his regional aide.

"A planned and subsidized economy," Clark declared, "beats down initiative, wipes out industry, destroys character and prostitutes the electorate."

"We Mormons have cared for the essential needs of our own in the past. We can do it now. We can do it in the future if we can be relieved of the debauchery to character which follows the dale."

But Harrington, in his prepared address, declared:

"No plan, no reasonable plan other than the work program, has been offered as a means for dealing with large scale unemployment."

"I do not see how any other plan can be offered, since work is what is required and since the federal government alone has the resources with which to cooperate with our communities in providing work."

A keystone of the church program was establishment of warehouses in each ward, to which members voluntarily contributed fuel, food and clothing for needy neighbors. On work projects "a man is paid according to his need."

PROPOSE STATE DROP PLANS ON ROAD BUILDING

Highways In Chicago,
However, Would Be Constructed

Springfield, Ill., June 20.—(P)—Opposition from downstate resulted today in a proposal to eliminate pledging of $60,000,000 in state gas tax aid from the $120,000,000 project for Chicago superhighways and downstate farm-to-market roads.

Robert Klingery of Chicago, chairman of the state planning commission, suggested that the program be saved from defeat by amending the Ward-Thomas bills.

Klingery spoke at a hearing before the house roads and bridges committee. Downstate county and township officials, who packed the galleries, cheered opponents of the program.

Downstate Meeting
Earlier the downstate local officials, at a mass meeting, expressed opposition to the state's issuing notes to pledge the gasoline tax collections over a 20 year period.

The roads committee, headed by Rep. David Hunter, Jr. (R.-Rockford) took no action on the bills after today's hearing, at which Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago spoke for the program.

The committee scheduled another hearing tomorrow at which Hunter said amendments probably would be offered to remove the state from the program, partially or entirely, but allow Chicago and Cook county to proceed with a program of superhighways by contributing $30,000,000 each from their own gas tax shares.

Refugees Quit Tientsin; Food Still Withheld

British Women And Children Leaving
Chinese City

Tokyo, June 21.—(Wednesday)—(P)—Britain began evacuating 1,000 women and children from the Tientsin concessions today, an official British report said, preparatory to "an indefinite period of resistance" against Japan's blockade.

The men were remaining, it was said, and had been requested to refrain as much as possible from passing Japanese barriers at the concession borders in order to avoid indignities which British "ladies" were encountering from Japanese guards.

Some of the British refugees boarded a steamer last night and arrangements were completed for the whole party to leave today.

Most of them, it was pointed out, had planned previously to go to summer homes but had been delayed by the blockade imposed by the Japanese.

Some of the British refugees boarded a steamer last night and arrangements were completed for the whole party to leave today.

Food Situation
The food situation behind electrified barricades with which the Japanese have ringed the British and bordering French concessions remained unchanged despite General Sugiyama's statement that the Japanese would "do everything to facilitate the entry of food."

Japanese patrol boats in the Hai still were preventing all sampans from landing food in the British concession.

The 1,500 Britons virtually imprisoned within the concession, meanwhile faced the loss of vital public services as Chinese employees began quitting their jobs and threats of death to their families if they remained at work for the British.

Champion Lamb Brings 50 Cents A Pound

Chicago, June 20.—(P)—Ralph Fulton's champion lamb was auctioned off for 50 cents a pound today at the first Chicago Junior Market Lamb Show at the International Amphitheater.

Fulton's entry, a 75 pound Southdown, was purchased by the Saddle and Sirolo Club for $37.50. The extreme top price paid on the open market in Chicago was $10.35 a hundred pounds.

The champion lamb of the show was raised by Fulton, an 18 year old farmer of Ashton, Ill. In addition to the sale price he won a cash prize of $5. In the contest open to members of the 4-H Clubs and Future Farmers of America there were 180 lambs entered by 54 youthful exhibitors.

Rumania, Hungary Are Hit By Storms

Budapest, June 20.—(P)—Violent thundershowers over Rumania and Hungary today caused the deaths of 23 persons and heavy damage to crops.

Nine persons were reported killed by lightning in Rumania and six met death from the same cause in Hungary.

A motor bus plunged into a canyon near Beholasi, Hungary, during the storm, killing two and injuring 20.

Three were killed and eight injured in a train wreck in Hungary.

Three were drowned in a flood at Bacau, Rumania.

Jews In Vienna
Vienna, June 20.—(P)—The Nazi commissioner for Austria, Joseph Buerckel, issued an order today forbidding Jews to loiter in the streets or visit entertainment establishments and sports fields of "Prater"—Vienna's Coney Island.

A WRONG GUESS
Sex "Forecaster" Errs;
He Has A Daughter

Newark, N. J., June 20.—(P)—Sidney A. Fortel, self-styled sex predictor, who announced last March 7 his wife would bear him a son, became the father of a girl late today.

I. E. Behrman, director of Beth Israel hospital, said 25-year-old Mrs. Jane Fortel gave birth to a girl at 3:20 p. m. (CST). He said hospital officials were awaiting Fortel, the linen supply company owner who said that after 20 years of sex predetermination he had a "secret formula" that guaranteed his wife would bear a son.

Dr. Herman S. Nash, the family physician, said Mrs. Fortel was "a bit disappointed" that it was a girl. He said the baby weighed 7 1/2 pounds, 12 ounces and that the mother and girl were "fine."

Tax Exemption Elimination Is Still Pending

FDR Calls For Early
Action On Measure
Before House

Washington, June 20.—(P)—While the bill wiping out the undistributed profits tax made quick progress in the senate today, President Roosevelt called informally for early action on another tax measure, eliminating tax exemptions on future issues of federal, state and local securities.

He indicated, however, that he was not too certain that hearings on the subject are to begin June 28 before the house ways and means committee.

Meanwhile the president used his veto power to make sure that the income and bonds of the new "rainbow" bridge to be built at Niagara Falls, N. Y., shall not be tax exempt. They were exempted under a provision of a bill which Mr. Roosevelt signed last year, but he explained today that the exemption provision was overlooked at that time. To "correct this oversight" he vetoed today a bill extending the time for commencing the bridge from June 16, 1939 to June 16, 1940, and the time for completing the structure from June 16, 1941 to June 16, 1942.

Rep. Andrews (R.-N.Y.) immediately introduced a new measure repealing the exemption provisions in last year's bill.

Cloudburst Swells West Texas Rivers

Colorado City, Tex., June 20.—(P)—Cloudburst-swollen streams of West Texas drowned one person today, swept away highway and railroad bridges, and drove between 200 and 300 families from their homes here and at nearby Snyder.

Ollie Morrow, 60, Snyder business man, was drowned by a flash flood which swept him from a bridge.

The Colorado river battered down a railroad bridge and a highway bridge, and destroyed two smaller spans. Rail and highway traffic was at a standstill here.

Only a few minutes before the railroad bridge washed out, a west-bound Texas and Pacific passenger train was halted after trainmen saw water lapping two feet below the floor of the trestle. Hundreds of bales of cotton and other debris hammered at the bridge pilings until the structure collapsed. Eight cars of fuel oil, shunted to the bridge in an effort to give it stability, plunged into the torrent.

Chinese Colony For Refugees Proposed

Shanghai, June 20.—(P)—Plans for building a colony for 100,000 refugees from Europe in Yunnan Province, south-central China, were announced today by Jacob Berglas, a refugee from Germany where he was a banker and manufacturer.

Berglas said that both the Chinese Central government at Chungking and the Yunnan Provincial government had tentatively approved plans for self-sustaining community in which refugees would be welcomed regardless of their religion and nationality.

Seeing The Light

Both Democrats and Republicans in the U. S. House of Representatives can be credited with the overwhelming defeat of the undistributed profits tax, which would have been a millstone around the neck of business. They voted 358 to 1, an almost unprecedented majority, to eliminate this legislation, which with some more proposals about like it seem to be on the threshold of passage all the time.

The Democrats and Republicans, who wrangle too much in the legislative halls without worthwhile results, demonstrated to the American people that they can get together when public pressure demands. The representatives go to Congress to represent the people; the people want the undistributed profits tax killed; the House members got together and did an impressive job—what more could citizens ask?

But this unified vote of the House is going to put ideas into the people's heads. If their representatives in Washington can line up side by side on one important issue, why can't they do it on all of them. If the House members are good enough judges of good and bad legislation to give the profits tax measure a licking, should not the people expect them to exercise the same acumen and courage on other major questions?

On most questions there are but two sides—the right and wrong. Very few questions possess middle ground, but a startling large number of lawmakers try to take refuge there. If they would line up for vote according to what they believe is right, and not the way a political party wishes, there would be more votes corresponding to the one cast Monday in Washington.

The people ought to demand of their congressmen and senators straight-out, hard-hitting decisions like they registered against the undistributed profits tax. Those same lawmakers in Washington should stand ready to put a united boot to the next scheme that bobs up to further threaten the future of business, or to turn America into an experimental playground for new governmental games of chance.

Those Things Will Happen

A Central Illinois newspaper the other day corrected a little mistake in the classified column, and told how the error happened.

It started when the telephone jangled in the newspaper office, and a man told the girl in the ad department he wanted to run a for sale ad. The young lady jotted down the information, read it back to the gentleman, who said it was all right, and then wrote out her copy.

The ad appeared that day. "For Sale—Two thousand and sixteen pigs." It said.

Now that it's a lot of hogs. The girl in the newspaper office thought it was, but didn't say anything. The man who telephoned the ad picked up the newspaper later, read his ad, and he thought it was a lot of pigs, too—some two thousand and odd more than he had for sale.

The next day the newspaper explained the situation thusly: The man had told the girl he wanted to sell two sows and sixteen pigs. She misunderstood, but no more so than the man, who said the ad was all right when he read it back to him. Two sows and sixteen pigs, and two thousand and sixteen pigs do sound something alike.

The nice thing about it, we understand, is that the man had called for a lot more pigs than he actually had to sell, and didn't have any trouble at all disposing of his livestock.

Boating Is Popular

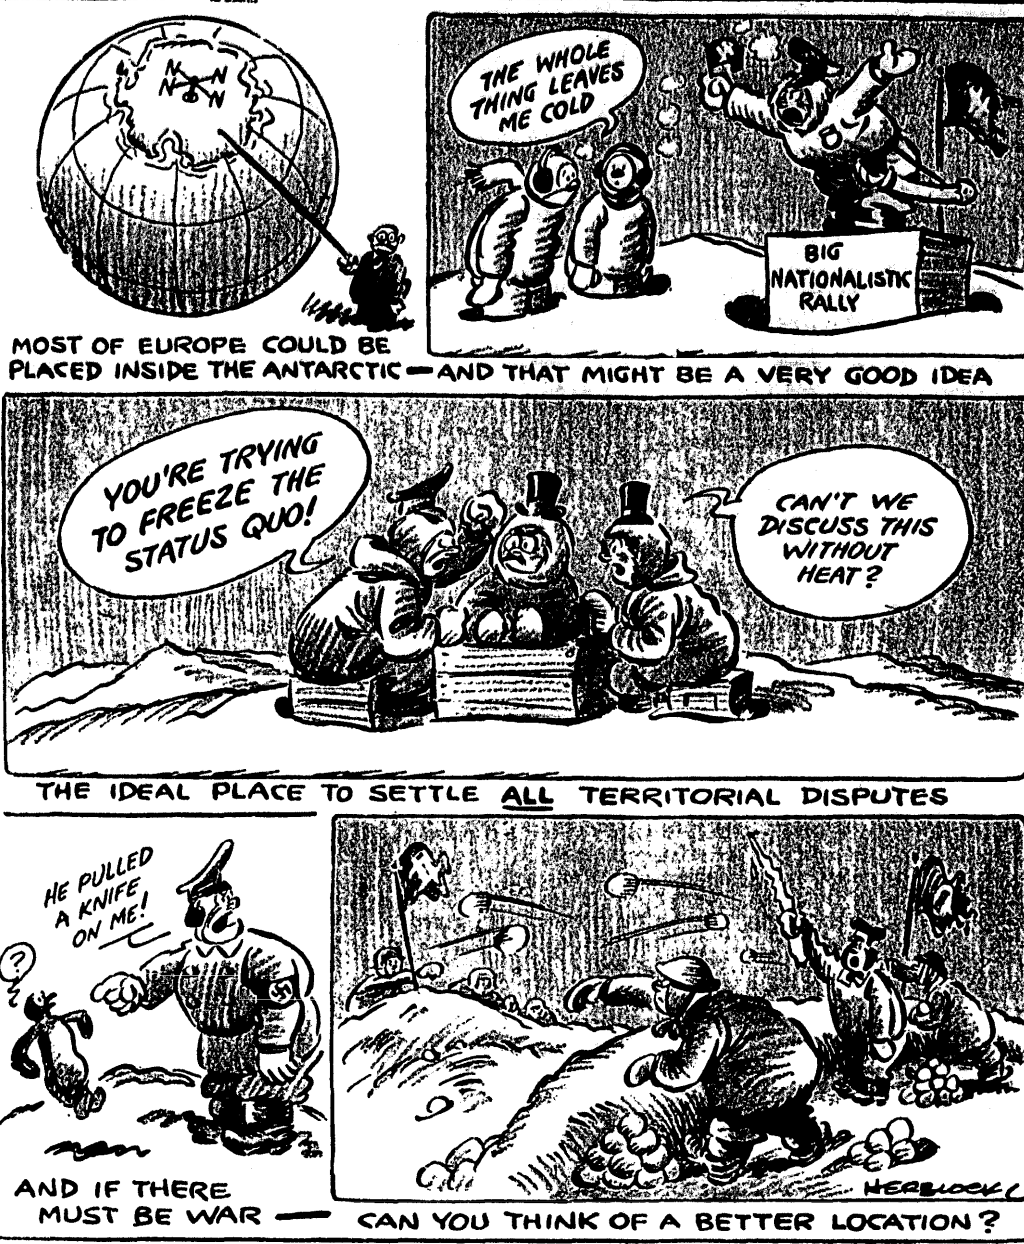

With National Outboard Motor Week in progress now, the recreational possibilities of boating are being called to attention throughout the country. Of course the boat and motor manufacturers have a reason for sponsoring such a week, but the owners of outboard motors and crafts are the sport's most enthusiastic boosters. Jacksonville has its boating devotees, and so has every community where there is a body of water or stream deep enough to float a boat.

For a number of years Lake Mauvaster had but two or three second hand rowboats on its waters. Then a few years ago the Jacksonville Boat Club was organized, quite a few members acquired crafts with motors, and today both power and sail boats are familiar sights on the lake just south-east of the city. The club has gone even further by putting up a clubhouse and improving its grounds.

We have never heard of a boat census being taken here, but the number of outboard motors and row boats owned in Jacksonville would probably be surprisingly large. In addition to the small crafts docked at Lake Mauvaster and kept in local garages, there are other Jacksonville citizens who maintain boats at Meredosia, Smith Lake, Matanzas and other favorite fishing and outing resorts.

The number of Jacksonville-owned crafts is certain to increase within the next year or two. The new lake under construction several miles south of the city, yet to be named, will afford large expanses of water for boating that have never been available here before. If the sport continues to grow acting. We don't stop to notice that every move they make may or may not be in character. They live their parts so thoroughly that we rejoice or suffer with them. "M" again.

Dear Sir:
We heard such a beautiful rendition of Massine's "Meditation" the other evening that we forgave radio its many banalities. (Ed's note: Wonder if one good column would do the same for us.)

"Radiovocator," One who speaks on the radio. This is our offering to supply the much felt need of a general term.

The other evening we heard a "radiovocator" sign off with the expression, "pax vobiscum". To say that we were startled is putting mildly. Ed's note: WE won't be the same for WEEKS!

Of course we're pleased, because someday we hope to see Latin regain its former status of an international language.

We are an ardent Nelson Eddy fan, that's why we criticize him occasionally. (Ed's note: We must write Mr. Eddy immediately. He's been so worried.)

Poor M, we're afraid you've been the victim of a "jibe-ish" mood on our part today. Promise we'll print your next communication just as it comes on those penny post-cards.

The copy paper is beginning to turn a bit in the typewriter, signifying that the end is near. Farewell, one and all. May we meet again tomorrow? Thank you, and you and you and you.

LEAVES FOR NORTH
Miss Jenna Higgins, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Higgins of Winchester, will spend the summer visiting in northern resorts, returning to her home in St. Louis in October. She was an alumna guest at MacMurray college during commencement week.

Saw "Mutiny on the Bounty" during its recent rerun here. We hadn't seen it before, and realized that it was one of these pictures one should see. It certainly is a powerful thing, isn't it. The photography comes in for its share of praise, too. Doggont, wish we could put Charles Laughton on a pedestal as all the dramatic critics seem to do. But, very humbly in our small corner, we kinda think he is overrated. We read somewhere once that Laughton doesn't hold with the "old school" of actors who believe that one should live his part, forgetting as much as possible that he is acting. Laughton, according to this article, works out each scene as a mechanic might work out the construction of a piece of machinery. Every motion, every expression, every speech inflection is planned ahead of time.

Whether or not this article was authoritative, we believe Laughton's performances show such a type of work. You watch him go through his scenes. Fire Damage Small At State Hospital Home for Nurses

Blaze Starts in Apartment Clothes Closet; Alarm Attracts Big Crowd

Fire originating in a clothes closet in the nurses' home at the Jacksonville State hospital, did small damage about 12:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The blaze started in the apartment of William B. Nold, hospital master mechanic, which is located in the south part of the nurses home building.

The fire was discovered by Philip Nold, son of the state employee, who spread the alarm. The volunteer fire department at the institution was on the job at once, and the city fire department also made a run to the blaze.

The fire was confined to the clothes closet and extinguished with out much difficulty. It destroyed a pillow and some clothing. The origin of the blaze is unknown.

The blowing of the hospital whistle saved a general alarm and a crowd soon gathered at the scene of the fire. Traffic in the vicinity of the hospital was heavy for a time. The local newspaper office answered many calls as to the location of the fire.

Miss Mamie Thady is spending the week with relatives in Roodhouse.

SMALL TALK

Good morning. Everything is so thoroughly damp today that we're expecting to squeeze water out of the copy paper any minute. It's a bad week to have just before the city tennis tournament and just as the Nichols Park golf tournament is getting underway. No chance for practice—no chance for match play. The weatherman promises a little sunshine however, so things may not be as black as they appear at the moment. Incidentally, speaking of golf, we notice that Jerome Barber led the qualifiers for the park tourney. Jim Buckley, the defending champion, didn't have to qualify. Buckley defeated Barber in the finals of the 1938 edition of the tournament in as pretty a match as we ever saw on local links. Would like to see the boys meet again. As we said last year, Buckley and Barber are not only two of the best golfers avar to play a Jacksonville course, but two of the finest sports as well.

The interior of the local passenger station of the Jacksonville Bus Lines has been redecorated and somewhat enlarged by the removal of several wall cabinets. The walls and ceiling have been finished in cream, and the high wainscoting in buff, giving the room an attractive appearance.

The cabinets along the walls, which were part of the fixtures of the drug store that once occupied the room, have been removed, allowing more space for seating. A settee has been added to the furnishings, providing more seating accommodations for those waiting for buses.

New York Stock Market

New York, June 20.—(P)—Light buying breezes kept the stock market in rallying waters today and leading issues advanced fractions to more than a point.

Dealings, while somewhat brisker than in yesterday's slow-moving session, never pressed the ticker tape. Transfers approximated 460,000 shares. Mild profit-taking reduced top prices in many cases at the close.

In addition to moderately optimistic business psychology, Wall Street was pleased with the quick passage of the tax revision bill in the house and prospects for speedy approval of the measure this week in the senate.

While the British-Japanese controversy in the far east was not entirely dismissed as a nervous speculative factor, observers felt a compromise here was a possibility and that an armed flare-up would be avoided. At least European markets took a turn for the better.

Bonds exhibited selective strength and commodities were narrowly mixed.

HALT JUNE BREAK IN WHEAT PRICES

Chicago, June 20.—(P)—The June break in wheat values was halted, at least temporarily, Tuesday as prices staged a modest rally, scoring small gains that were held at the final bell.

Buying credited to mills and dealers who felt that a technical recovery was due helped to bolster the market. Some covering by previous "short" sellers also was in evidence. B. W. Snow, crop expert, said preliminary Kansas production estimates may be lowered further because of possible additional abandonment yet to be discounted.

Receipts were: Wheat 40 cars, corn 69, oats 19.

Wheat closed 4 1/4 higher than yesterday, July 701, September 711 and corn was unchanged to 1 lower, July 491-2, September 501-51; oats 1-1 lower.

GILLHAM FUNERAL HOME

Dear friends:
When you send flowers to a funeral, you are doing two things: You are paying a tribute to the deceased, and you are expressing your sympathy to the family. It is a custom we hope may never cease.

We consider flowers a most important part of the funeral service. They add an indefinable something to a service that nothing else can do.

The cards are carefully preserved and given to the family later for acknowledgement.

Respectfully,
J. L. Jackson

"That's No Way To Treat a Lady!"

Hopeful of carrying on the tradition of America's "Rogers Family" of the theater, Diana Barrymore, 18, above, will make her debut as an actress at a summer theater in Ogunquit, Me. She is the daughter of John Barrymore and his former wife, Michael Strange.

Henry Ford, 2nd, may be the grandson of America's richest man but, as assistant manager of the Yale crew, he washes his own shirt. Above, he is about to hang his wash at the crew quarters in Gales Ferry, Conn.

The Crown That Rules Nation Without a King

IT isn't worth much as royal crowns go—a jeweler probably would value its gold and jewels at about $1500—but to the people of Hungary the Crown of St. Stephen is the greatest treasure in the world. To them it is the symbol of hope, of faith in some future monarch who will restore Hungary to former greatness.

While the crown remains a nation's sole link with the monarchy, and all acts of legislation and courts are "in the name of the Sacred Crown," Regent-Governor Nicholas Horthy de Nagybánya holds the power. He is the crowned king of Hungary.

For 19 years he has guided the destinies of his country. His tactics in seizing power and eliminating his enemies has made precedent for other dictators follow. Trained in the scientific discipline of the Imperial Navy—he still retains the title "Admiral"—Horthy has led Hungary out of the terror of post-war revolution and has steadily strengthened the military and economic position of the last remnant of the Hapsburg empire.

Horthy has made no attempt to seize the crown for himself. Rather, he has built a greater nation for some future king to rule.

The crown itself is unknown to all who wear it shown on the Hungarian stamp above, olive green, the series of 1938, commemorating the 900th anniversary of the death of St. Stephen. The stamp is overprinted upon the annexation of Czech territory.

Some Reasons Why So Many Buy Used Cars From The Lukeman Motor Co.

We are not so much concerned about a volume new car business because it is hard to do a volume business and still be able to select the type of used car that careful buyers would want.

Many used cars traded in on new cars should be junked instead of being repaired and resold. That is why we like best to trade for cars in our own territory from people we know and have some knowledge of the care the car has had.

We believe the owner who has his car properly serviced and gives it the care and attention it should have, deserves more for his car in trade than a car that is driven without service, and is abusively handled.

We believe we are today offering the public some of the best used cars and trucks ever shown in Jacksonville, at a price that is very much in line with quality.

Our cars are carefully serviced and sold with a written guarantee. Visit our used car lot or for a private interview, call 299 or 330 and ask to see a salesman.

SERIAL STORY

BRIDE ON A BUDGET

BY JANET DORAN

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Bart and Iris quarrelled, but Iris has her dinner just the same. She tells Bart she has no money, he discovers she is in debt. Yet Iris buys a new milk coat to "feel wanted."

CHAPTER XI

THOUGH it was Monday, and she had recklessly splurged $12 on a dinner party for her friends Saturday night, and Bart had worked at the shop all day Sunday, and Sunday night until long after she slept, Iris left the office with a clear plan in her busy mind. She had taken the milk coat at noon, and hidden it deep in one end of her clothes closet back of her last winter's coat, her raincoat, her summer sport coat, and the long, furled tweed coat to her wardrobe suit.

Now, at four-thirty, she bought a steak, bought everything for a grand feed. The way she was to do before they were married. When she was trying every wife she knew to enchant Bart and make him propose to her.

At six-fifteen, Bart came in, tired, disappointed and silent. Iris stung him a radiant smile and started the steak. She took the potatoes out and popped cubes of butter into each yawning seam, where the scored place had burst a few minutes before. The lima beans oozed yellow butter as she poured them into the dish, and the hot rolls were just right—crisp, and not dry.

Still he didn't notice. Still he just came in, pulled his chair out and sat down and began scooping his potato out onto his plate. Iris passed him the platter of steak and he helped himself to it. By the time they reached the short-cake, Iris was ready to scream. She watched him cut the cake, watched his fork travel from the plate, laden with cream topped peaches and cake, to his mouth, and back again, and the awful silence was too much. Abruptly, she pushed away her untouched dessert. Desperately, she faced him across the little table laden with the remnants of their lovely dinner.

"Bart, what is it?" she asked shakily.

DULY, he looked at her. Wearily, as if trying to brush away a burden he could not bear, he ployed tense fingers through the thick wavy brown hair. Then lighting a cigaret, he started splitting the match a dozen ways with nervous thumbnail.

"What's it to you, Iris?" he asked bluntly.

"Bart, you know anything that concerns you, concerns me, too!" "Don't worry, I'll manage to support you in the manner you're determined to enjoy, Iris."

"Bart—please!"

"All right, you asked for it. The bank wouldn't give me any more time on my notes, so they took over my insurance as forfeit."

"Bart—why how could they? If you paid the interest and met the payments."

"I didn't pay the interest, Iris. I couldn't. And I couldn't borrow any money anywhere. Not even from loan sharks. So they took my policies."

"They'd no right to take all that insurance away from you, Bart! Can't you make them just take out the amount due, and give you back the rest?"

"Iris, you know nothing about business or finance, so quit bothering me with this."

"Quit bothering, Bart Whitaker! The idea. When that was to be our own home, when the policies were paid up."

He glanced at her curiously. Shrugged finally, as if he gave up. "It's a little late to think of that now, Iris. They're gone."

That night, Iris woke up toward morning, and a cold fall rain was blowing in. She got up and closed the window, and turned, arrested, when Bart began muttering in his sleep.

"I tell you it's impossible—I'm sorry, I can't help it. I can't do it. I tell you, I can't—don't you understand? Do my wife's salary has nothing to do with this, this is my affair. Seventy-five a week together and we owe everybody. All right, so what? Do you want all my creditors to be cheated of their money?"

Shivering, she lay still listening, but there was no more. Though he tossed and turned a lot and groaned, she wondered if she oughtn't take the milk coat back after all. Before it was ever worn. But it was so cold in the morning, a sharp wind, and the driving rain. And remembering her heavy coat was worn, she put the anxiety out of her mind. Bart was always borrowing trouble.

This was probably just another false alarm because he hadn't made $50 clear profit this week, or something like that.

They breakfasted hastily, and Bart hurried away as soon as he was finished. At noon, when she telephoned, Iris was informed he was out. And Ellen was looking with her husband, and neither offered to invite her to join them. So she ate a solitary lunch at the soda bar around the corner. And finishing, heard the news about her husband losing his radio and washing machine agency.

"Sure, didn't you know? Truck's over there now, taking the stuff. I heard he couldn't make a lot of dead-beats pay their weekly installments, so the company took them over. But this will be a bad dent to the shop all right. Hurts a business when anything like that hits them."

Iris didn't answer. She walked out and went back to the office. Past Professor Kitteridge's little bungalow where the young men and girls of the senior and junior classes gathered to discuss serious things, nightly from 4:30 to 10. Past the Gamma sorority where girls often dashed out in mid-winter to set a pan of chocolate peanut butter fudge to cool in the snow; where gay lighted music blared forth during prom weekends. Where smart roadsters swooped up to tootle musical horns for the fortunate few who were dated.

Iris felt almost old, hurrying past them. Nodding to one or two she knew. Knowing they thought of her as "Mrs. Whitaker, of the dean's office." Because she'd been there so long. Longer than any of the present crop had been in college. Two college terms longer. Eight years.

That night, Bart was home ahead of her. Lying on his bed, covered with a satin puff. Ill with a severe cold. Tired, and ill, and silent. Iris tried to make him take some medicine, some aspirin, or a kargle, or something but he refused. He was all right; leave him alone. She tried to make him have a doctor.

"I don't want a doctor, and I couldn't pay one if I had him. Now get out and leave me alone, will you?"

In the kitchen, feeling rather abused and neglected, she scrambled two eggs and made coffee. There was some short-cake left, and some salad. Eating her solitary supper, Iris decided budgets weren't much fun. Not mixed with marriage they weren't. Because the budgets were to blame for all this.

In the middle of the night, she heard Bart prowling around. And speaking to him sharply, was alarmed to discover he was walking in his sleep. His voice sounded queer and thick, and a trifle shrill, but he got back into bed again directly when she spoke to him. And right after that he had a chill. Shaking so her own bed three feet away trembled, Iris was alarmed and got up.

She got her heavy winter coat, and her spring coat, and his overcoat and piled them on his bed. She lighted the gas and boiled water and got a hot water bottle. Still he shook so his teeth trembled and he kept sneezing in awful spasms of seven or eight sneezes at a time.

At 7, when Iris awoke again, he was delicious and did not know her. Frantically, she called a doctor.

Plan Observance Of Capps Centennial At Tuesday Meeting

C. Y. Rowe Selected Chairman of Local Committee; Banquet Discussed

At the preliminary meeting last night of the Jacksonville committee for the observance of the J. Capps and Sons centennial, the week of September 11 to 16 was designated for the celebration. The committee, meeting at the Dunlap Hotel, selected C. Y. Rowe as chairman. Members of the group include representatives of the service clubs, local industrial and labor groups, the Farm Bureau, the American Legion, and other organizations.

Following the dinner, the discussions centered around appropriate events to be included in the week's program. The centennial celebration is to be conducted by the entire city in recognition of the 100 years of service rendered by the plant. Certain events have already been definitely decided upon as a part of the program. Friday evening, September 15, a banquet will be held at MacMurray college, climaxing the centennial week. Representatives of all organizations in Jacksonville and many in other parts of the state and nation will be invited to attend. The committee for the banquet, composed of Rotary club members and headed by Dr. Ellsworth Black, will secure a speaker of national reputation for that banquet.

Several other events were suggested as tentative propositions. An effort will be made by means of a parade, a pageant, or a style show, the exact way to be decided later, to present to local citizens and visitors historical data concerning the development of both J. Capps and Sons and the community in which it is situated. Frank Heini is in charge of organizing the historical material for the celebration. The emphasis will be placed upon the economic and social development of Jacksonville as affected and participated in by the Capps factory, rather than upon the organization of the plant itself.

It was decided last night to present the various proposals for the celebration to the organizations represented on the general committee. These organizations will offer additional suggestions and will eventually be assigned certain projects to develop as part of the week's activities. The employee group will have charge of one section of the celebration.

After the service clubs and civic groups have discussed the centennial among themselves, the general committee will meet again to formulate a more definite program. This meeting will be held within the next two weeks.

In addition to Chairman C. Y. Rowe, the members of the general committee are Roy Welch, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Sam Foley, James Dunlap, Dr. Ellsworth Black, C. H. Haneline, Harry Martin, Frank Heini, Leo McGinnis, Milton Edge, George Lukeman, Jr., Charles Reinhardt, Lee Sullivan, T. A. Chapin, Walter DeShara, Ray Grunty, C. P. McClelland, J. N. Conover, E. B. Miller, Earl Spink, Carl Gebhart, and Eugene Gustine. Harry Capps and Robert Capps were also at attendance at last night's meeting.

THE LONGEST DAY!

No Use to Rush, You'll Have Plenty of Time

Those people who are so busy that the day is never long enough can look forward toward tomorrow with some hope of relief. It will be a long day—the longest, in fact, of any in the year.

The longest day of the year, Thursday, June 22, is also the official start of summer, and the present unsettled weather conditions may be attributed to the summer solstice.

Tomorrow the rays of the sun will fall farther to the north than any other day this year, and then with the slow change in the daily variation of the earth's position the rays will move further south.

Changeable weather, thunderstorms, high winds and other disturbances frequently occur in connection with the change of the seasons. Jacksonville has been getting its share of all of these recently.

On Thursday the sun rises at 4:37 a. m. and will not set until 7:27 p. m. The days then will grow shorter at the rate of about one minute in each 24 hours.

Thirteen Divorce Decrees Granted By Judge Wright

Numerous Orders Docketed At Circuit Court Session Tuesday

Thirteen divorce decrees were granted in circuit court here yesterday by Judge Walter W. Wright. All but two of the decrees were granted at the morning session of court. Judge Wright also entered a number of other court orders on the docket.

In the damage suit of Otis Gibbons vs. Byron Smith and Ruby Smith, heard by Judge Wright last week, the court found the issues for the plaintiff and assessed the plaintiff's damages in the sum of $101.50. In the complaint of Roy K. Adair, receiver, against Roy Corrington the cause was heard on the motion to strike the third and fifth counts of the answer and taken under advisement.

In the complaint of Alice H. Winchester against Mildred Hilt, a judgment on the verdict order was entered, and it was considered by the court that the plaintiff do have and recover of and from the defendant the sum of $1,200 and costs and that execution issue therefor. A petition by the trustee for leave to sell real estate was presented and allowed in the complaint for construction of will suit of Ernest G. Schureman against Kate Schureman.

In the foreclosure suit of the First State Trust & Savings Bank of Springfield against Arthur B. Ziegler, et al, a supplemental report of the receiver was reported.

In the divorce suit of Irene Sheppard vs. James Stacy Sheppard, the defendant having failed to appear or show cause attachment was ordered to issue, returnable instantly. The defendant purged himself by paying arrears and was discharged.

In the foreclosure suit of Jane Irlam, conservator against Thomas Perry Entrikin, et al, the master's report of evidence and conclusions was filed and approved. A decree for foreclosure and sale was rendered, approved and filed. The fee of the guardian ad litem was fixed and allowed in the sum of $10.

In the partition suit of Catherine Kennedy Meany vs. John N. Kennedy, et al, the motion by certain defendants to dismiss suit was entered. A cross motion by the plaintiff for leave to amend the cross motion was allowed. The amendment was filed and the motion to strike was denied.

The master's report of evidence and computation was filed and approved in the foreclosure suit of Miss S. S. Barr, et al vs. Olin McLamar, et al. A decree for foreclosure and sale was rendered, approved and filed.

A verified petition for rule on the plaintiff to show cause was filed and the rule on the defendant to show cause by July 1, why he should not be attached for contempt by reason of his failure to comply with the decree in the divorce suit of Hazel V. Johnson against Roy W. Johnson was made.

In the bill to quiet title suit of Margaret E. Hall against Sebastian Kumble, et al, leave to the plaintiff to verify complaint was made.

Virtually all of the members of the Morgan county bar were in the court room at some time or other in the interest of motions they have on file, or to obtain divorces from clients Tuesday.

Extreme and repeated cruelty and desertion ran neck and neck as causes for granting the decrees.

A divorce was granted to Emma Louise Baptist Surratt on her counter-complaint against Raymond R. Surratt, alleging extreme and repeated cruelty, the original plaintiff failing to appear to prosecute his allegations.

Divorces also were granted to Addie Brown from Hayden Brown; Marion F. Davault from Omer Lee Davault; Evelyn Marie Kamm from Warren H. Kamm; Georgia Ann Lynn from Charles Lynn and Frances Wood from William Russell Wood, all on the grounds of extreme and repeated cruelty.

Giving desertion as the grounds for divorce, Judge Wright signed decrees for Aubrey Ore from Mabel Ore; Pamela Newenham from Kenton Newenham; Caroline Laughary from Paul W. Laughary; Harriett Agee Scott from Gilbert W. Scott; Milton A. Trotter from Inez Trotter; Edward R. Eweringham vs. Julietta Eweringham and Mary C. King vs. Harold King.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis of the Euklor, residents of southwest of the city, were visiting with friends at Springfield, Mo., and on Tuesday made a business trip to this city.

Griggsville Movie Theater Destroyed By Fire Yesterday

Loss Between Eight and Ten Thousand; Fire Battled By Two Departments

Griggsville, June 20—The Pike Theater and all equipment was totally destroyed by fire between 12:30 and 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, while two fire departments battled vainly in attempt to check the blaze. The loss is estimated at between $8,000 and $10,000, partly covered by insurance.

The theater owned and operated by Richard Wade, was housed in a two story building erected about five years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Wade were in St. Louis today for the purpose of booking pictures, and did not learn of the fire immediately.

Griggsville firemen tackled the fire which had a long start, having originated in the second floor of the building, and the Pittsfield department sent a truck when it appeared that other buildings would be ignited. Firemen confined the flames to the theater, although roofs of adjacent buildings were badly scorched.

Household goods of Mr. and Mrs. John George, Jr., who occupied an apartment on the second floor, were destroyed.

The fire was discovered by Leslie Mantion, whose notary public office was in one of the rooms of the building. He said flames were over most of the ceiling when he saw them first.

The Pike Theater was one of the best equipped movie houses in the county. Two projection machines and much other equipment was lost.

Both Jacksonville Banks to Make Cut In Savings Rates

Post Notices Reduction In Interest Will Go Into Effect July 1

Jacksonville banks will reduce the rate of interest on savings deposits from one and a half to one per cent on July 1, 1939. Official announcements to this effect are now posted in the Elliott State Bank and The Farmers State Bank and Trust Company.

Banks in Peoria, Springfield, Decatur, Quincy and many other cities reduced the rate on savings deposits to one per cent from one to three years ago. Jacksonville banks are among the last to reduce the rate.

The reduction in the rate is due to the very small income received on Government and other securities which is at an all-time low and in which banks must invest large portions of their funds bank officials state.

Many securities in which banks must invest yield less than one per cent per annum and some of them as little as 15/100 per cent per annum.

Some banks in the East are announcing that they will discontinue paying interest on deposits; some others announce they will discontinue business because they cannot carry on with a profit.

The banking department of New Jersey has issued orders requiring all banks under its control to reduce the rate of interest paid on deposits to one per cent or less.
